

Changing the energy in a room is as easy as 1, 2 or 3.

A fun and easy way to adjust energy in a room is to take a look at the displays you have in place. By changing the number in the grouping you can alter the energy and the meaning. For example, while one candle may suggest enlightenment, two candles ignite romance. A common oversight in the bedroom is having groupings of three – three candles, pillows or photos, for instance. As the love and romance area of the home, the bedroom should have groupings of two which represent unity. Click here to learn more about the meaning of numbers in feng shui.

Customer Testimonial

"Divorced and with no romance on the horizon, a group of girlfriends threw a surprise 50th birthday party for me. One of my friends gave me a Double Happiness Nightlight and a "Love" print from the At Home with Harrah catalog. She also gave me a home-makeover consultation with Harrah Brown. I followed Harrah's advice and rearranged my home in simple ways that welcomed love into my home. Within weeks I met my soulmate and after dating for several months, we eloped! Thank you, Harrah, for bringing love into my life!"
